Duce Move Seen Hint to Hitler

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP)—Premier Mussolini's agreement to confer with Britain and France to safeguard the Mediterranean was interpreted unofficially today as possibly a subtle Italian pressure on Chancellor Hitler for further German intervention in Spain.

It Duce, in this view, may even be prepared to threaten weakening of the Rome-Berlin friendship axis by transferring Italian support into the Anglo-French camp.

The next move in the complex diplomatic game will be the Italian premier's visit to the German chancellery this weekend and a conference Mando in Paris by Italian, French and British naval experts on Italy's demand for parity in the Syrian antiquary patrol of the Mediterranean.

While Italy thus seemed to be drawing closer to the Anglo-French front, tension between France and the Spanish insurgents was on the increase.

French authorities took special precautions along the Pyrenean frontier as the result of reports an attempt might be made to rescue one of Generalissimo Franco's military governors charged with a plot to steal a Spanish government submarine from the French harbor of Brest.

French anger at the insurgents over the detention of the French consul at Malaga was heightened by a report reaching the frontier that seven French citizens now residents of San Sebastian and Irún would be expelled from Spain today.

Another form of reprisal for the arrest of Major Julian Tresserras, accused as the would-be submarine traitor.

On the Anglo-Italian diplomatic front, an announcement that the Duke and Duchess of Kent would leave tomorrow with Count Dino Grandi at his London embassy was taken as a promising indication of improved relations with Rome.

Rebels Open 'Big Push'

REDAVY. Franco-Spanish frontier, Sept. 23 (AP)—Spanish insurgents were reported today to have opened a concerted offensive by land, sea and air to smash the Aragon front line defense of the Allies.

Advances reaching the French border said the "big push" was centered on government positions from the French harbor of Brest.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's landing planes swept Biscaya, the Basque fishing port at the river mouth, in a three-day assault yesterday and also dropped bombs in nearby Asturias, or government, institutions.

French anger at the insurgents over the detention of the French consul at Malaga was heightened by a report reaching the frontier that seven French citizens now residents of San Sebastian and Irún

Butler Sees World Chaos

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (INS)—President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University today warned the nation the world's dictators are threatening the very foundations of liberty in the remaining Democratic countries, including the United States.

In an address delivered at the opening of the university's 148th year, President Butler declared:

"With the world facing the gravest crisis which has confronted it in more than a thousand years, men persist in repeating the old and now empty formulas and refusing either to open their eyes to what is going on all about them or to give any sign of understanding what really terrifying meaning it all has."

May Clan Rules On Leong Tong

CHICAGO, Sept. 23 (INS)—The May clan today continued its leadership of America's Chinese, with Gerald May (or May Hoi), as head of the powerful On Leong Tong.

His successor Frank Mo, who died recently of a heart attack.

His title, for American consumption, is mayor of Chicago's Chinatown, but actually he was chosen by 100 delegates from thirty-three cities.

Japan Raid On Canton Takes Toll

Non-Combatants Die By Hundreds; Only Home Areas Hit

CANTON, China, Sept. 23 (INS)—Japanese war planes attacked this large southern Chinese port today in one of the worst air raids ever visited upon a city.

Ten heavy Japanese bombers and a number of fighters participated in the attacks, in which bombs were dropped on heavily populated areas of the native quarters.

While explosions on the ground produced a frightful exchange, the raid as viewed in the skies provided a thrilling spectacle. Chinese planes which sought to drive off the attackers engaged in deadly "dog fights" with Japanese aircraft.

AWFUL SLAUGHTER. Foreigners who visited areas hit by the raid declared they witnessed "awful scenes of bloodshed and wholesale slaughter. They expressed wonder at the failure of the Japanese objectives, since not a single government building or military establishment was hit during the raid.

The bombs left gaps 50 yards wide in some of dwelling that had been filled with living persons, but were littered with bodies of the dead.

Scattered human beings protruded from the debris.

At one ruined house the body of a dead Chinese woman was still sitting upright at her front door. A few yards beyond a child was raised a piece of masonry and displayed some mangled human remains.

SURVIVORS DERANGED. "This is my wife," he said. Hundreds of frantic children roamed the streets seeking their parents.

Many of the survivors were mentally deranged by the horrors they had witnessed.

Terrified refugees were seeking along the city in fear of further bombardments.

Meanwhile, from Shanghai it was reported the Japanese have sufficient material to carry out a raid by 20 planes on Nanjing every day for two weeks, with each plane carrying a ton of bombs.

Fighting continued on the Shanghai front as Japanese guns pounded Chinese defense lines, drawing vigorous replies from new batteries.

But at dawn, for 15 minutes there was a lull when the Japanese troops, turning their faces toward Tokyo, and their backs toward their foes, paid homage to Emperor Hirohito on the occasion of his imperial anniversary.

RESUME FIGHTING. Once the Japanese resumed fighting, Japanese headquarters at Shanghai announced the air force launched a series of raids against strategic points in Chinese interior. The reported and damaged airbase, troop trains and military establishments at numerous points.

Today United States Ambassador Noyes T. Johnson and all members of his staff were back in the American embassy in Shanghai, while the 17 U. S. gunboats Liaison and team stood by.

Indignation Flares in London at "Murders"

LONDON, Sept. 23 (INS)—Confused Japanese air raids against Chinese civilians aroused a storm of protest in Great Britain today.

Newspapers attacked the news of the latest bombardment of Canton, the London Evening News terming this attack "the most frightful air raid of all."

The London Evening Star called it "foul murder."

Harsh criticism by the continued raids, influential British circles brought pressure on the government to take immediate steps, in concert with the United States, to condemn a meeting of interested powers in London.

"This meeting would discuss possible action to induce Japan to cease bombing Chinese civilians."

While the newspapers cried out against the carnage, a flood of telegrams and letters descended upon Cabinet and Parliament members condemning what was termed "Bolshevik barbarism."

Even the conservative Times of London declared the Japanese bombings aroused "indignation and disgust as a stupid display of ferocity."

U. S. Near Break With Tokyo Over Bombings

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (INS)—Japan's renewed aerial warfare on China's defenseless civilian population, leaving America's embassies protected, today shocked Washington, officials and brought the United States near the verge of a diplomatic break.

While an official reply was awaited from Tokyo to yesterday's stern objections to the ruthless slaughter of non-combatants, the new air raids on Canton, with their frightful toll of civilian dead, renewed fears here that little satisfaction would be forthcoming to the American warrent.

Duce Opens Huge Old Rome Exhibit

ROME, Sept. 23 (AP)—Italy's modern Caesar, Premier Benito Mussolini, today inaugurated a vast exhibition of Imperial Rome on the 200th anniversary of the birth of Emperor Augustus.

With a group of diplomats and high officers of state, he strode through the exhibition rooms where a gauntlet of statues reconstructed from the old Roman era.

Home Thrift Stressed by Bodfish

Co-operative Bankers Urged to Adopt Unity Keyword

Never has there been greater need for a banding together of thrift and home financing institutions than at the present time. Bodfish, vice-president of the United States Building and Loan League, declared today at Swampscott.

Addressing the 49th convention of the Massachusetts Co-operative Bank League, Bodfish asserted that cooperation and unity should be keywords now among those in situations throughout the country.

FULL ECONOMY URGED
"We must make it stick," he said, "that the attempts of other nations to achieve economic gains by war, or to find economic short cuts by various forms of socialism, just cannot do for the individuals what a free and liberal economy can achieve for him."

"Some of the other plans have a surface appeal, but the verdict of history is against them."

CIVIL HOUSING FACTS
Looking at the recently-enacted Wagner-Steagall housing act in the light of British experience, Bodfish recently returned from England, said it would supplement private enterprise in this field.

"Subsidies and assistance in housing over there," he continued, "are now confined to clearing of slums and the replacement of living quarters thus abandoned. The amount of local participation is a determining factor in the process of allotting national funds."

Cutter Lands Il Duce Son

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (INS).—Following a scheduled exhibition, protest demonstration, a U.S. Coast cutter today brought Vittorio Mussolini, son of Italy premier, safely up New York harbor after shortly disembarking him from the Italian liner Rex.

Closely guarded by G-men and police, young Mussolini, was loaded in a North River police automobile, reportedly under escort of the U. S. Coast Guard, and went to take them to a military base.

Action of the Coast Guard put a question on assumed plans of the New York state comptroller, the Commissioner, to assist the Rex from quarantine with a local appearing apparatus having "protection" against the arrival of Il Duce's son.

Young Mussolini plans to adapt himself to the film industry of his home and was accompanied by his brother, Hollywood producer.

Hatfield Guilty In Schooner Fraud

OTTAWA, Sept. 23 (Canadian Press).—Captain Freeman Hatfield, former owner and master of the three-masted schooner, Orpheus, convicted of defrauding the government of $12,724 in war provisions by falsely stating his ship was sunk by a German submarine, was due to be sentenced today.

The government contended that the Orpheus never left the Irish coast on July 12, 1915, foundered in a storm.

Youth Who Fled Hospital Is Back

HARRY MARR, 25, of Salem, N. Y., today awaited an operation in New England Deaconess Hospital, Boston, after he fled the surgery by walking down a fire escape yesterday from his fourth floor room.

The youth was returned by his family according to hospital authorities, who refused to reveal the nature of his illness.

Boston Port Lists New Freighter Line

The Boston Port Authority today had announced the addition of the Elsen-Brodin steamship line to those using Boston Harbor as a destination from foreign ports. Operating fast freighters, the line will begin service when the Norwegian motorship Tecora sails from Buenos Aires. The ship will berth at the Army Base terminal in South Boston.

(Mark your choice with an X and mail to the MAYORALTY STRAW BALLOT EDITOR, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass.)

By FRANK K. REILLY

Former Governor James M. Curley outdistanced all competitors again today as scores of ballots marked for him poured into the offices of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser mayoralty straw poll editors.

This was one of Curley's biggest days. Every mail was loaded with paper votes for him. District Attorney William J. Foley was not forgotten by readers of these newspapers and he received a large vote.

Former Representative Alfred Santouso of Hyde Park also received a substantial vote and remained in third place.

NICHOLS GAINS
Friends of former Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols forwarded many ballots to the offices of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser and he threatened to force School Committee member Maurice J. Tobin into fifth place. This was another bad day for Tobin as he received only a handful of votes.

President John I. Fitzgerald of the Boston City Council received a fair vote. The majority of the ballots marked for him came from his home section, West End. The four other candidates on the ballot made a poor showing.

EXPRESS YOUR CHOICE
They are Carlton L. Brett of Dorchester, Social Justice nominee; Charles L. Manner and Alonso R. Cook, Republican candidates; and Otis Archer Hood, the Communist candidate.

In 1933 the mayoralty straw poll by these newspapers showed weeks in advance that Frederick B. Mendenhall would be elected. In 1936 the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser poll showed that Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. would go to the United States Senate and Charles E. Hurley would be elected Governor.

It is believed that the present poll will eventually indicate the winner of the November 2 election. Readers of these newspapers are urged to take part in this poll. Mark your choice today. Mark your ballot for your favorite candidate and mail it today.

Registration Campaigns Opened by Candidates

A drive to add 40,000 names to the Boston voting list before October 14, the final day for registration for the mayoralty election, was launched today by former Governor James M. Curley, who is now seeking a fourth term at City Hall.

Boston's present registration is approximately 325,000. The all-time record for registration in Boston was established last fall when the figure for the state election was 325,000.

President John I. Fitzgerald of the Boston City Council met with members of his mayoralty campaign committee at his headquarters in Chambers street, West End, to inaugurate a similar drive. "I am satisfied that the voters of Boston realize that I am the candidate best fitted to take over the job of mayor during the next four years," Fitzgerald told his workers.

"I have served in the House of Representatives and in the State Senate and for the past 12 years have been a member of the city council. In all I have given a generation of my life to the public service. I am the only man in the history of the city to serve three terms as president of the council. I am an enthusiastic city affairs and I will administer the municipal government honestly, fairly and efficiently."

District Attorney William J. Foley and members of his campaign committee met last night at Fitzgerald's City Club for a discussion of recent political occurrences having bearing on the mayoralty fight. It was announced at the meeting that 23 Boston members of the Legislature are on the Foley hand wagon.

Former Governor Curley in an unending parade for his drive to boost Boston voting set stated that he expected the final figure for 1937 will be in the neighborhood of 375,000 registered voters.

"Mine is the only political committee in the city which can effect a substantial increase in the voting list," Curley said. "This requires the most intense kind of campaign work and only the Curley organization is capable of such effort."

Aid Flaherty Wd. 9 Fight is Keen

Members of the Dorchester Democratic Club today announced their endorsement of John C. Flaherty of that district for election to the two-year term in the Boston school committee.

The berth Flaherty seeks is the unexpired term of the late Dr. Charles E. Mackey.

Flaherty is a civil engineer and in 1935 was Democratic runner-up in the school committee contest. Joseph G. Sullivan of Roxbury, candidate for the four-year term in the school committee, last night renewed his attacks on Dr. Joseph V. Lyons and Chairman Frederick H. Sullivan, incumbents, who are seeking reelection, and at rallies in South Boston and Charlestown demanded that they explain the alleged "school committee scandal" of 1935 which resulted in imprisonment of two men, who are alleged to have frequented the offices of the committee.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys excrete 35 miles of liquid waste in blood which is filtered out of you hourly. Most people pass about 1 1/2 lbs. a day or about 100 lbs. a year. If you are not passing this waste, it is building up in your blood, causing kidney trouble, backache, rheumatism, and other ailments. It is the cause of many diseases, including high blood pressure, arteriosclerosis, and heart disease. charge from Bridgewater. In the face of a forgotten court order for his imprisonment as a dangerous criminal and a menace to children. The chief executive has also been called for a full report on Long's summary release in Chelsea court on August 28—only 13 days before the murder of the second New Hampshire child.

In one of the suits revealed today, Dexter Nadeau, of Dover, N. H., is asking $10,000 for the death of his son, Arnold, 12, whose battered, frozen body was found in a Dover cellar last December.

Long has admitted responsibility in the death of the Nadeau child, Stamford County officials say.

GIRL TELLS STORY
This suit was filed by Attorney George H. Hughes, of Dover, N. H., who is making a study of Judge Stone's association with the prisoner.

The other two suits were filed in Lebanon, seat of Belknap County, N. H. These actions are based on the alleged murder of 10-year-old Mark Neville Deane, whose skull was shattered in a savage attack September 10.

The murder of the Jensen child led to the arrest and reputed confession of the probationer from Massachusetts.

Each of the Lebanon suits is for $10,000. One was filed by Attorney

David A. Tilton, an administrator of the Jensen boy's estate. Plaintiff in the second is Harry Jensen, the child's father.

Meanwhile, Long's girl friend described the speed with which she and the alleged sex slayer were released in Chelsea district court.

FRAGILE QUEEN
Found by the Boston Evening American, the girl, 18-year-old Olive Hall, recalled:

"My case was the first one called and I got out of there pretty quick. He came right out behind me."

She also disclosed that Long visited her home in West Lebanon, Me., three days after New Hampshire authorities say he murdered the Jensen boy.

Meanwhile, as authorities of six states were snapping out a new war against sex crimes in sessions at Providence, District Attorney William J. Foley conferred in New York with Mayor LaGuardia, District Attorney Harwood W. Hastings, and Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine.

In the outside cottage where she lives with her father, Miss Hall volunteered the information that Long had at least a girl's training in Rochester, Dover and Somersworth in New Hampshire, and in other counties bordering the New Hampshire Maine line.

The Hall girl described Long as a "good spender." She said she was a clerk in the office of the Boston Police Department until she was arrested from her father, Frank Jensen, who quoted her father as saying:

"It's a good thing they locked you up. He might have killed you that night."

Report on Ct. Home Child "Attacks"
PUTNAM, Ct., Sept. 23 (AP)—Five months' investigation into conditions at Putnam County Temporary Home for Children was ended today and findings of a legislative committee released in a 28-page report which recommends a number of changes ranging from due to finance.

The investigation was prompted by complaints of two runaway girls, one of whom, Superintendent Philip C. Provada had several times, at times.

Provada was awarded, charged with attack his wife with embarrassment and Wendell Ford, a cousin of Mrs. Provada, with receiving stolen property. The three are to be strangled men in Superior court.

Major recommendations of the legislative committee provide for firing of bonds by employees, and county funds, open houses every day of the week for three residents, who will be inspected, institution, reduction of work hours and duties for inmates, and consent of the state commissioner's health to marry.

Chicago Police Detail Hunts Sex Criminals
CHICAGO, Sept. 23 (AP)—Thirty-five policemen comprised a special detail charged today with the task of solving 12 attacks on women in Chicago hotels and hospitals during the last two years, on women in the city.

The officers, members of a newly organized sex bureau, will work nightly from 10:45 p. m. to 4:45 a. m. in the areas that the majority of sex crimes have occurred.

Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan said the first job of the bureau, directed by Lieut. Otto Erikson, would be to search for men who have assaulted, beaten or killed women in recent months.

Popoff Suit Called Off

SALEM, Mass., Sept. 23 (AP)—Yesterday, trial of the separate Popoff suit against Dr. Constance Popoff, wealthy Haverhill physician, abruptly ended today with an out-of-court settlement.

According to court records, Dr. Popoff agreed to pay his estranged wife $20,000 in settlement that she return to the Haverhill home of the couple.

Last June, Dr. Popoff obtained a court order restraining his wife from selling or disposing of effects of the house. His charges in his petition that she was squandering his money being on the house and was associating with persons against his wishes.

Fails to Balk $90 Holdup

Police today opened search for four men whose armed holdup of a Beacon street drug store was nearly frustrated.

Hidden in the window of the store at 104 Beacon street, Brookline, a woman passerby saw the clerk, Harold Heath of Mattapan, covered by headst pistol.

She ran down Beacon street and called the police. The police found the three, in a car driven by a fourth man, had escaped.

Heath said he was forced to lie in the floor as the holdup men rifled the register of $90.

Messenger Named For Justice Black
WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—The Supreme Court has selected Leon A. Smallwood, a Negro, and a Catholic to serve as messengers to Justice Hugo L. Black. Black has vetoed the selection of his messengers. A Negro messenger is assigned to each justice.

Smallwood has been connected with the Supreme Court march in the state and told three years ago was contributing editor to the Burlington Daily News.

Germans Set Curley, Santosuosso Ask To Hail Duce Jury Issues in City Suit

BERLIN, Sept. 23 (AP)—Germany's capital, where three nights has been darkened in grim air raid drills, switched to festive brilliance today in preparation for the impending visit of Premier Mussolini.

Italy's premier, whose visit to Chancellor Hitler may deeply affect European diplomacy, will be welcomed first in Munich Saturday, Munich which did not participate in the air defense rehearsal, is planning to receive Duce in a big way.

But the really impressive honors will be bestowed on the distinguished visitor in Berlin Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

At least one million Germans probably will throng Olympic stadium and adjacent Mayfield to hear Hitler and Mussolini speak Tuesday. The federal railways are printing a million tickets for seats and standing room.

O. O. MCINTYRE, read his famous column, "New York Day by Day," every day in the Boston American.

Curley, Santosuosso Ask Jury Issues in City Suit
Governor James M. Curley and Attorney Joseph Santosuosso today filed motions in Superior Court asking the court to frame jury issues on certain questions submitted by them in connection with the $60,000 suit brought against them by the city.

Last Saturday the full bench of the Superior Court ruled that Curley and Santosuosso must answer in superior court to an equity suit which charges that they received $20,000 of an $85,000 settlement claim against the city in 1932.

To file suit the city alleged that out of the $85,000 paid to the General Equipment Corporation by the city for water damage in Belmont square during the building of the subway extension, Curley, then mayor of Boston, and Santosuosso received $20,000 therefore, and this fact was well known at the time to both of them.

The questions submitted by Curley with his motion were:

1.—Did the defendants agree with each other that the defendant Curley, by reason of his power of influence as mayor of the City of Boston, would bring about the settlement of the actions of the General Equipment Corporation against the city and that payment should be made to Curley for so doing out of the proceeds of said settlement?

2.—If the answer proceeding is in the affirmative, what sum, if any, was so paid to defendant Curley?

SANTOSUOSSO'S QUESTIONS
Santosuosso's first question was the same as that of Curley. His second read:

"Did Curley bring about a settlement for so doing out of the proceeds of said settlement?"

The next question was a repetition of question No. 2—submitted by Curley.

Santosuosso also filed a motion asking the court's permission to amend his answer, made some time ago, to the allegations of the City of Boston.

Vindicated by High Heels

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—Because of her high heels, Carolyn Blanchard, 19, at Scarsdale, N. Y., was freed today from charges of driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident.

Miss Blanchard, a student at Colby Junior College, New London, N. H., was arrested September 8 by Patrolman George Daw, who said she drove on after her car collided here with a cab.

Taken to the police station, she was released after a breathalyzer while trying to walk a straight line.

Miss Blanchard testified she had just bought a new pair of high-heeled shoes, but attributed her unsteady gait to her high-heeled shoes.

Remarkably the heels were "more like stilettos," Magistrate Curran dismissed the charges.

Ruth Roland, Film Thrill Star, Dies

Heroine of Old Screen
Series in Husband's Arms at End

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23 (AP)—Ruth Roland, beautiful heroine of the silent motion picture days, was dead today, victim of a lingering illness.

Just as many a time in the thrillers there was a strong hero, today there was her husband, Ben Hurd, to hold her hand as she slipped into the shadows.

Miss Roland was 29. A native of San Francisco she went on the stage as a child and was known as "Baby Ruth."

She went into motion pictures in 1912. The leading lady of Pathé Franks for many years, she acted in "The Red Circle," "The Avenger," "The Tiger's Tail," "The Timbrel Queen," and many others of a similar nature. "Rene" produced in 1920 was her last.

Miss Roland enacted her roles at a time when the stars themselves performed dare-devil, breath-taking stunts. She was a splendid actress whose hold on their fans around the world was complete. There was magic in the name of Ruth Roland in front of a movie house.

After giving up film work, Miss Roland entered real estate and investment fields under the name of Ruth Roland, Inc. She made a spectacular success in business that rivaled her meteoric career in the movies.

She was credited with having saved her money when she was a popular film star, and her real estate holdings in Los Angeles and Hollywood were considerable.

She was the former wife of Lee Earl, automobile and retail magnate. She was married to Ben Hurd, who was a film star, in 1928.

Former Musical Comedy Star Dies

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—Virginia Reed, musical comedy favorite around 1900, died today at age 61 in a New Jersey nursing home where she had been for some time.

She was the former wife of Lee Earl, automobile and retail magnate. She was married to Ben Hurd, who was a film star, in 1928.

Padres' Old Mission to Be Rebuilt

Thousands Support
Drive to Restore
Old Landmark

(Special to Boston Evening American)

SANTA ROSA, Calif., Sept. 23.—Complete restoration of the historic Mission, northern outpost of the great chain of missions founded in California by the Spanish padres, is the aim of a new campaign, sponsored by civic-minded groups and prominent private citizens in the Sonoma area.

The mission, built in 1824, had long since fallen into decay under private ownership when it was deeded to the state of California in the equipment, inaugurated by William Randolph Hearst, to bring historical landmarks under state ownership.

Since then, state appropriations have enabled partial restoration of the mission, but much remains to be done, and the aim of the new movement is to have the mission and adjacent grounds brought back to their original condition as rapidly as possible.

Promoting the movement is the rapidly increasing number of people now running into the thousands each year, and the historic spot.

One of the friends of the plan is Mrs. A. B. Spink, whose estate, Santa Rosa, is now Sonoma. Other active interested in the restoration include Mrs. Celeste Murphy, prominent business and publisher; Mrs. Jack London, the California Pioneer; and Native Daughters.

In recent former mission of the mission, an exhibit, such of the new space will be used as an art gallery and a number of local California painters have already promised to contribute works to the gallery.

PRIVATE CONTRIBUTIONS

The restoration, if accomplished, will largely be financed by private contributions, since the state's commission, in charge of state monuments, has not found a way to carry out the work.

"I am certain the commission will do everything possible to cooperate in the further progress of the Sonoma Mission, and any money contributed will be devoted exclusively to the carrying out of the work," declared Mayor Lewis B. Clark of Santa Rosa, a member of the commission.

Howard Johnson Adds to Chain

The fast-growing Howard Johnson chain of ice cream shops and restaurants today opened a new Boston store, located on Huntington Avenue, opposite the Teachers College, near Longwood Avenue.

This new Howard Johnson is in an unusual, distinctive architecture and has many exclusive features. The restaurant is finished with natural pine paneling and is completely air-conditioned. It is equipped with young, beautiful and comfortable kitchen.

The model kitchen is the most modern restaurant kitchen in New England and is equipped with the latest in kitchen equipment. The kitchen is installed so that every day and night is thoroughly sterilized. Packing space for 300 is provided.

THIS IS LIFE

By
Robert E. Rogers

When anniversaries reach the thousand-year mark, they are called millenniums. From now on, probably, we shall have a good many of them to celebrate.

Today marks the two thousandth anniversary of the birth of Octavius Caesar Augustus, the most famous of the Julian Caesars. To mark it, Benito Mussolini, who has a notion that he is the modern Augustus, is making a thing to the occasion of the anniversary of the birth of the emperor.

It was Augustus, however, who organized the empire which was Rome—the founder of the world's first empire—and who, without question, was the greatest of the unspangled emperors.

Augustus Organized Empire, Rebuilt Rome

When I was a small boy, I remember England celebrated the millennium of Alfred the Great, but the first millennium I was the observance of Queen Victoria's birth a year or so ago.

It was Augustus, however, who organized the empire which was Rome—the founder of the world's first empire—and who, without question, was the greatest of the unspangled emperors.

The picture drawn by Suetonius in his "Lives of the Caesars" of Augustus as an old man is interesting and not without its charm. He pictures him as an old man of some years and manner, who had seen him much of the atmosphere of old Republican Rome. He lived in what for those times was Jeffersonian, even Jacksonian, simplicity.

Had Reputation as Gambler for Big Stakes

He was rather a spare old gentleman who was not a gambler in the ordinary sense of the word, but he was a gambler in the sense of the word. He had a reputation for being an ardent gambler for very big stakes. Indeed, the Roman story is that he had made most of his fortune in the game of chance.

He apparently did not care much for the elaborate banquets of many mixed courses which the Romans offered, and of which you can read a magnificent account in "Dinner at Trimalchius," written by Petronius, a first-century writer who was Nero's master of the revels. He led a life in a bread and cheese and radishes, taking a snack whenever he happened to be in the line of crossing streets.

He had a fairly unhappy family life. His daughters were pretty rotten, and the less said about the women folk the better.

Drove Cleopatra, Anthony to Her Death

It is said he exiled the poet Ovid to Pontus, which was the jumping-off place of the Mediterranean world, because he published a very naughty poem, "The Art of Love," and was thought to have seduced Augustus' daughter or granddaughter—I forget which, not having the right words by me. He patronized (along with Augustus) the famous W. Mellon of his day.

He was a man of letters. He assisted in the murder of Cicero and a good many others; he treated both Anthony and Cleopatra pretty badly in fact, drove them to their deaths, but in comparison with his successors and relatives, Tiberius, Caligula, Claudius and Nero, he appears like a saint—or, to be more precise, like a Calvin Coolidge.

What is most interesting is that Rome in the time of Augustus was remarkably like modern New York and Washington, the one piled on top of the other. A modern American would probably feel very much at home in it.

Describe Bombing

Bombs that rained death on Shanghai for two weeks were described today by two returning Americans as "a scene of destruction."

They escaped the catastrophe of destruction in the western Chinese international city by boarding an out-bound Japanese ship and refusing to leave when authorities called on them to do so.

Miss Margaret Taylor of Nevada Avenue Mallon, instructor in physical education at the Junior High School at Reading, and Miss Patricia Rice of Elmwood Avenue, Chelsea, teacher at Maiden High School, arrived in Shanghai just in the midst of a bombing raid.

"We saw the whole street go up," they recounted. "The air was filled with flying bodies, dirt, wood and pieces of bombs. We were frightened to death, but, by luck, our truck was untouched."

Divining Rod Gets Credit for Watch Find

In Hillsboro, N. H., where many strange things happen, they're still puzzling over the lost foot of Dana Brown, well finder. He and his friends now that by means of his divining rod, he brought to light a gold watch lost on the farm of Frank D. Gay months ago.

Not long ago, Dana Brown went over the grounds around the Ocean Born Mary House in Henniker, N. H., looking for pirate gold, supposed to be hidden there. He found no Spanish doubloons, but a lot of old horseshoes, a keg of nails and rusty nuts and bolts. He's still trying. Especially since he found the gold watch.

In there a more dismal sight, in Boston, than a lot of crackpot philosophers and reformers huddled under the trees on the Common on a drizzly Sunday afternoon? All week they store up pat phrases, pointing the way to a new party, a new state or a new heaven. Then comes rainy Sunday, and nobody to speak to but the squirrels.

Amateur scientists have been experimenting with dice for generations. Only people called them sharper. A meeting of genuine scientists went into the matter recently and found that sixes, fives and fours were more likely to turn up in a fair game than threes, twos and ones. It is a matter of contraction. More ivory is taken out for the higher numerals, making the cubes lighter on those sides.

A lot of feeble jokes have been perpetuated about wives who help their husbands snop for a new hat or suit or overcoat. A canvass of Boston stores shows most of them like to see the wife among when the time comes for Friend Husband to make an addition to his wardrobe.

Willie M. Farrell, manager of the famous Boston store, agrees. "I sure would like to see a wife with her husband when he comes to buy a new suit or overcoat," he says. "I would like to see a wife with her husband when he comes to buy a new suit or overcoat."

"I'd like to think of you married," her mother said again. "It's so hard for a girl otherwise."

Linda looked down at her hands, small, well-shaped hands, reddened and roughened with work. She thought, it's hard, no matter what you do!

A really big red rose, Linda Perry, lives with her family in a small frame house in the country near Philadelphia. As the mother and father, Linda is the only child of the family. Linda is a girl of 15, and she is the only child of the family. Linda is a girl of 15, and she is the only child of the family.

Time Out for Cocktails

By ANNIE BRINK

WE WOULDN'T blame you in the least if you were badly tempted to spend all your money on afternoon things! They're that grand now.

You needn't go completely glitter-glitter to be festive. Come up from the country in a sheer-wool trimmed with handkerchief (one of our girls has this number cost around twelve dollars) and look right for the Ritz bar. But if you'd like to glitter, here's the best thing to wear to the bar.

Chanel like is the use of gold mesh on the black silk crepe blouse. And other stars in the line-up are the anti-flicking black velvet and the black beanie-trimmed with gold garret-berries and with gold garret-berries.

There are among the cutest, youngest and most inexpensive fashions for the town folk.

CHANEL invited gold mesh trim of slim, sleek crepe, above

CENTER sketch hark or brown transparent velvet drapes, and tipped up by gold nugget. Simple and very nice.

IMPERFECT in hange line, sketches left, extremely youthful with its tuning, and gold garret-berries on the bodice!

CHAPTER 115

"TALK to Sam Brington before we see Ronald!" I echoed, thoroughly startled by Dicky's proposal.

You heard me the first time," my husband glibbed good-naturedly.

"I suppose you are right," I said brisily, "but—with sudden reason—you'll have to do the talking to Sam Brington. I can't bear the sight of the man."

What? Dicky ejaculated in patent exclamation. A delicate and attractive situation like that! I should simply move it up!

Look here! I'd do all the preliminary talking and musing, and I'll be standing by in case of the talk to Sam Brington. I can't bear the sight of the man."

Beets MAKE Finest RELISH

By MARTHA LEE

WE SELDOM hear praise for the beet as a vegetable, although, after the potato, it is one of the most important food

It might be well for us to hark back to the words and suggestions of Apicius for suggestions on seasonings for beets.

Apicius suggested beets. When they are put in season, or not available, use some chopped onion or a more delicate onion. Chop them fine and blend with the beet pulp and season with the beet pulp.

ANY GIRL who loses out on the good things of life because little blemishes turn the faces of friends and acquaintances from her has only herself to blame. So much can hinge on an very little—a fleeting chance acquaintance that might turn into the most important thing in your life! Don't let it fizzle out like a dud before it's even started.

And even though your skin might give forth a no competition, though sure is not the pampered mouth of a first-class beauty. You can always prevent a clear, unblemished and bright face to make a pleasant and regular at first sight.

Railroad News Is Mixed

Carloadings Near Peak for Year as Net Dips

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

Railroad news took on a confused appearance today and traders and investors both sought an answer free of bias. The three factors responsible for muddling the outlook are August net operating incomes, carloadings and maintenance outlays. The first show declines, the second are at or close to a peak for the year while the third are being cut by a leading carrier.

Since carloadings are the measure of rail income, let's examine them first. Individual reports for August show a slight increase in tonnage but a decrease in carloadings. The average number of cars loaded during the week ended September 18, 1937, was 1,000,000, a decrease of 100,000 from the same week last year. This is a record for the month made but a small gain over last year, and it was a disappointing one. The average number of cars loaded during the week ended September 18, 1937, was 1,000,000, a decrease of 100,000 from the same week last year. This is a record for the month made but a small gain over last year, and it was a disappointing one.

If there is a really sharp spot in the railroad news, it is the report of Pennsylvania in continuing maintenance outlays for September and October. This is the first time in a year that the company has reported such a large increase in maintenance outlays. The company has reported a 10% increase in maintenance outlays for September and October. This is the first time in a year that the company has reported such a large increase in maintenance outlays.

When everything is summed up, it seems that the railroad news is mixed. The carloadings are near a peak for the year, but the net operating incomes are down. The maintenance outlays are up, which is a bad sign for the future. The outlook for the railroad industry is uncertain.

Although the market has by no means indicated that it is now ready to indicate a renewed technical rebound of good proportions, few will dispute that the behavior of late has not been enough better. The individual situations that a week or two ago seem to have brought a deluge of selling, are now showing the list. Two groups, utilities and bank, showed surprising resilience when the industrialists tumbled to new lows and finally there is a marked difference in volume now when prices do recede. The chief argument of late in debating these things is that they are negative, and thus we are not. But before positive outside signals are seen it is only logical to look for those pointing to an end of a downturn.

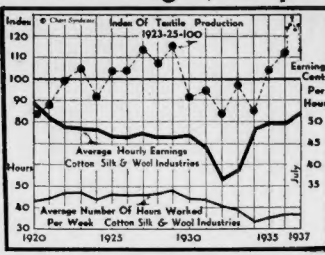

The fact that we realize here on the coast of the United States as this is written takes place on a smaller volume than previously and that the heavily inclined are confronted with the necessity of driving prices to a minimum. Should they fall the economic outlook will be even more bleak. It is not clear that the market will soon be in a position to support a better recovery movement than any recently witnessed.

C. M. Overseas Sales Up 9.2 P. C.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP).—General Motors Corp. announced sales of cars and trucks to dealers in overseas markets totaled 27,253 units in August, an increase of 9.2 per cent over the like month in 1936.

In the first eight months sales of 246,415 units constituted a record for that period and were 10 per cent over the volume in the same period a year ago.

Textile Wages, Output

According to the National Industrial Conference Board, hourly wages in the cotton, wool and silk industries averaged 54.7 cents in July. The average number of hours worked in these same textile industries was 44.4 hours a week.

complicated by the Federal Reserve Board showing a 11 per cent drop in July compared with June. Part of this decline may be attributed to seasonal responses in some textile lines, also the strike against American Textile Manufacturers Institute.

Business to Shift Appeal to the People

By R. C. FORBES
Are business leaders planning to come into the open, to voice publicly their views on political and other problems concerning them, to create new organizations or strengthen existing organizations designed to enhance their united influence?

The president of one of America's very large retail collections, Percy S. Straus, Macy & Company, announced that he was organizing the American Retail Federation. This organization is designed to be a part of retail merchants to have a national magazine through which the retail industry, now having no attention to the recommendations of the public, can voice its views on relative and other proposals of policy affecting it.

WIDELY SIGNIFICANT
This development is widely significant. The truth is that most industries, trade organizations, etc., have been convinced that Washington was not a place for them. They have been convinced that the time has come for them to pay taxes and provide employment to the people. They have been convinced that the time has come for them to pay taxes and provide employment to the people.

Opinions of Carloadings Brokers At New Top
For the time being I think moderate buying of selected stocks can be made where accounts are in good positions. Few will dispute that the behavior of late has not been enough better. The individual situations that a week or two ago seem to have brought a deluge of selling, are now showing the list. Two groups, utilities and bank, showed surprising resilience when the industrialists tumbled to new lows and finally there is a marked difference in volume now when prices do recede.

The prospect for the market is starting to look somewhat better. The recent wave of pessimism subsided. The undertone in the investment market has improved and there is a new inquiry expressed in the better second grade bond groups.

A continuation for a time of the relative stability of the market can be expected to receive confidence among investors and traders alike. More money than would a series of sharp rallies be desirable. The market is starting to look somewhat better. The recent wave of pessimism subsided. The undertone in the investment market has improved and there is a new inquiry expressed in the better second grade bond groups.

Check Is Feared

'Seen as Factor in Stock Market Weakness'
By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Yesterday I pointed out certain indications that the investment of capital is being slowed up by checks in the business. The decline in security markets and in new issues of securities are cases in point.

Bank Clearings Up 22.5 P. C. Over '36 Week
NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP).—Bank clearings in 22 leading cities totaled $5,002,040,000 in the week ended September 22, 1937, an increase of 22.5 per cent over $4,085,744,000 in the like week a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

Just at present, however, I will especially emphasize that there are some grounds for hope that conditions will turn better for capital. And as long as this can be said, you may be sure that I will not be too pessimistic. I will keep trying to earn interest.

Secondly, I see evidence that the New Deal policy is becoming more realistic, and that some sort of "breathing spell" is probable. The obvious reaction to the heavy nomination of Senator Rankin is a member of our Supreme Court, has something to be said for the realization of a more realistic government.

'Penn's' Income Reported Lower
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22 (AP).—The Pennsylvania Railroad reported net operating income for August of $1,362,523, a decrease from the figure of $1,720,144 a year ago.

Assoc. Gas Output Gain Narrows
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Electric output of Associated Gas & Electric System for the week ended September 17 totaled 91,702,000 k. w. h., an increase of 5 per cent over the like period a year ago.

Liquor Stocks in Further Gains
WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Stocks of distilled spirits continued to increase and at the end of August 1937, the available supply reported by the Treasury Department was 360,106,375 tax gallons, against 330,960,000 gallons at the end of August, 1936.

Should the market at this point take a turn for the worse, we would regard such action as a temporary occurrence which need not seriously disturb the idea that a new bottom has been formed, which will ultimately prove strong enough to support a better recovery movement than any recently witnessed.

Let's Save Our Jobs

HAVERTHILL Mayor George A. Dalrymple, invited to represent New England at a reciprocal trade treaty hearing in Washington next month, expects little assistance from the United States Tariff Commission.

He cites Secretary of State Hull's recent Boston demand for freer trade and closer co-operation with the bankrupt nations of Europe.

He calls attention to the fact that Japan, paying workers less for a week than Americans receive for a day, has flooded our markets with her cheaply manufactured products.

He points out that Czechoslovakia has sent one million pairs of shoes into this country since January 1, and is now ready to ship us THREE MILLION MORE PAIRS.

And he concludes with the warning that the ONLY WAY New England people can save their jobs is by BUYING AMERICAN.

The Haverhill mayor is undoubtedly right; Secretary Hull and those who follow him blindly seem too interested in the preservation of other countries to give much thought to the economic welfare of their own people.

STATISTICS compiled by Mr. Hull's own Department in Washington prove how well he and his policies are serving Europe and the Orient at the expense of American industry and labor. Mr. Hull should read these statistics.

They show that in seven months of the present year, the American people spent TWO BILLION DOLLARS on foreign goods for consumption in this country.

This was an increase of considerably more than FIVE HUNDRED MILLION dollars over the same period last year.

By contrast, we have exported goods of our own production to other countries of a value some 150 MILLIONS LESS than our imports.

Mr. Hull's department calls this an "unfavorable balance of trade." IT SURELY IS. For the products of our farms and factories are without markets because of it. And American workers are without jobs and wages also because of it.

WE AGREE with Mayor Dalrymple, and so do all right-thinking Americans. EVERY MAN WHO MAKES HIS LIVING IN AMERICA, PRODUCES GOODS HERE AND SELLS THEM HERE, OUGHT TO BUY AMERICAN.

The Governors Are Right

GOVERNORS of five New England States attending the Eastern States exposition in Springfield, discussed flood control and each expressed his opinion.

That the States had lived up to their part of the contract, but that the Federal Government had repudiated its part.

The Governors, two of them members of the President's party, pointed out that ALL the provisions of the pact had the FULL APPROVAL of the United States Army engineers and the War Department.

And Governor Cross of Connecticut observed:

"We watched every detail. In fact, more detail was taken in the preparation of the reservoir plans than was actually spent in the writing of the Constitution."

Find the Guilty Person!

GOVERNOR HURLEY pledges himself to find out for the people of this State why Howard Long, confessed New Hampshire sex slayer, was twice freed by Massachusetts courts.

Learning that Long was turned loose in both Weymouth and Chelsea in spite of the fact that a Superior Court judge had ordered him to stay in prison, the Governor said with determination worthy of his high office:

"I am going to discover who was responsible. We are confident that Mr. Hurley will do exactly what he says. Like the rest of us."

Our Legion Ambassadors

THE 250 Legionnaires who represented Massachusetts in the huge National Convention passed Governor Hurley as AMBASSADORS OF GOOD WILL.

Never before in all its long history was the Bay State so outstanding in a percent of national interest and importance.

And by State Commander Ray McKewen and Governor Hurley, proudly wearing his Legion uniform, the men, their auxiliaries and their drum corps won the admiration of the more than two million persons who saw them march.

On every lip, everywhere, was one word—MASSACHUSETTS!

Long after the convention is adjourned, the memory of the Bay State delegation marching in what was probably this country's greatest parade will live.

And because that memory will live, thousands in every part of the country will say: "Massachusetts—it must be a grand place to live in."

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—New York has innumerable boys and girls who are already living in the past. Strange youth that as equipped playthings and the yearning of the old folk in their homes, when they are brought to a sudden stop in the crack of a door.

They had those young and old eyes, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.

They were looking at the world with a new interest, and they were looking at the world with a new interest.
